

Cosy Christmas Day

Christmas is a time full of traditions where people spend time with their families and friends. Many companies have Christmas traditions too where they invite employees and their families to a cosy Christmas activity day.

It is a popular task to plan such an event, but it takes time to prepare and plan. Furthermore, the day is probably expected to be a bit different compared to last year's. But sometimes it is difficult to be creative – especially without breaking some of the traditions.

Vice Versa would like to offer you our assistance, so that your next Christmas event will be a fun and different experience. We take care of everything, so that you and your colleagues can relax and celebrate together without having to think about heating the food or dressing Santa.

We take care of the whole event such as decorations, food and entertainment.

Why not start the day with a decoration workshop? Afterwards, everyone will have a chance to dance around the Christmas tree that has been decorated with your own Christmas decorations. It's also possible to include a dance workshop or a mini disco where the children dance and have fun. Or perhaps you would like to spice up the event with an African drum school. It is fun for both adults and children, and you will for sure burn some calories.

The possibilities are endless!
