

Kidnapping

Take a break from the conference or your working day and enter a world of action, intrigues and trade-offs.

Vice Versa has the pleasure of offering you an intelligent alternative to the ordinary city tour. This concept offers you a unique possibility to meet some of the more dodgy personalities in the city while you are approaching a common goal and strengthen your team.

The Scenario:

One of your new business partners, "Big Bucks", is visiting your headquarters. Hopefully you are able to sign a huge contract in the near future regarding a promising pioneer product. The product has been brought to the meeting by the managing director of "Big Bucks". Suddenly the meeting is being interrupted by a group of masked men with guns. The group kidnaps the director together with the product in front of all the surprised participants.

On the way out the kidnappers drop a bag which seems to contain some clues. The clues are the only way for the participants to find the director and retrieve the product.

On their way through the city the participants will be involved in an exciting play of intrigues and confusion. The task is to work their way through the city as quick and as efficient as possible, solving the case on the way.

It is a puzzle of information, actions and objects that the participants have to put together. The last piece of the puzzle needs to be found in order to recover the vital information - showing the way to the managing director and the product.

The participants need to work together in teams. But at the end, the task might turn out to be too demanding for one team alone. Cooperation is needed and the team will have to solve the last part together. It is up to each team to decide what to do and each member of the team contributes with their unique skills.
