

Storm P

Invite your colleagues to your own Storm P competition where ingenuity, inventiveness and logic are the way to victory.

At the beginning of the day, our very own Storm P arrives in a truck full of good stuff – such as electric motors, springs, nuts, rubber bands, etc. Out of the remedies in the truck all the groups are going to construct and build an odd aggregate based on a specific task – e.g. a beer opener that only reacts when you throw garbage in a bin. The more parts and junctions you use in order to get the beer opened the more points you receive.

During the building process, there will be different challenges that could turn out to be an advantage to some of the groups – or the other way around. Barter agreements and sabotage are part of the game and will make the competition more challenging. Of course, you need to make blueprints before you start. The team that succeeds in following their own blueprint will receive additional points.

The winner is found just after the competition where our Storm P will check all the creative solutions in action and give points. The winning group will then be announced. Alternatively, the winning group and the winning aggregate could be announced during dinner on a big screen accompanied by a video/photo collage.

This event can take place on most locations since everything will arrive by truck.

We are looking forward to seeing you in action!
